SAYS:

A good name does not make a good suit—a good suit does make a good name. That is why the name WALSH is such a good one to have in your suit.

It's more important to you now—in these days of uncertain woolen and tailoring qualities—than ever.

Always pleased to show you.

PRAYER WEEK TO AID DRY FUND

W. R. Webb Asks Co-operation in Drive for National Prohibition.

Urging that all Tennesseans join in the campaign to exterminate liquor from the world, W. R. Webb, former senator and chairman of the state prohibition league, has issued a proclamation naming this week as one for prayer for the success of the league's coming drive for funds and for the complete end of alcohol. The proclamation was issued recently from Hillsboro, Tenn., Mr. Webb's home.

Ministries are urged to put this subject before their congregations and newspapers are urged to give publicity to the week of prayer. In fact Mr. Webb says:

"I ask all people to regard this as the greatest opportunity in their lives for service to humanity and I appeal to you to arise above sordid and selfish motives to a proper appreciation of this great privilege."

The national prohibition financial campaign will operate under the leadership of the national prohibition league, which will be asked to contribute $10,000.

AUTOIST HITS LAD
WHILE "ZIGZAGGING"

A charge of reckless driving of an automobile while intoxicated is lodged against J. B. Milam, 1530 Preston street, following the running down and injury of Robert Trevino, 13, 1024 Baines court, Sunday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock. Trevino, who was riding a bicycle, suffered a bruised leg. His bicycle was demolished, according to a police report, which says that Milam was zig-zagging from one side of the street to the other, when he struck the lad, who was riding near the curb. NEGRESS REFUSES TO BE
RE-WOOFED WITH PISTOL

Dora L. Sudds, negress, 129 East Carolina avenue, may pay her life for her refusal to return to her husband, Charles Smith, who now lives on Turley street, near Linden avenue. ORDINANCE TO FIX SCHOOL TAX
AT SIXTY CENTS

Will Be Tested Through Friendly Suit So That City May Know Whether It Has Authority to Increase Rate.

The first ordinance of the new administration will be passed on first Tuesday morning, according to the city commission. It will provide for a school tax of 60 cents, instead of 50 cents, the present rate. This figure, however, will be subject to change when the budget of the board of education is presented.

The introduction of the ordinance will be the first step in carrying out the platform pledge of Mayor E. F. Hume and his associates of better support for the city schools and a sufficient tax to ensure the school board to pay the salaries of the teachers. It is admitted they should have.

S. M. Williams and others of the Chamber of Commerce committee on teachers' salaries, will file a friendly suit against the city for levying the tax, in order that the city's authority in the matter may be decided by the supreme court before the regular budget ordinance and tax rate ordinance are passed.

There is some ambiguity in the law fixing the school tax at 50 cents and lawyers are unable to state positively whether under that law the city may levy a higher rate or not. That point cleared up, the city administration will know just what its authority in the matter is.

The ordinance was drawn by Walter P. Armstrong, city attorney, and has been approved by Mayor E. F. Hume, attorney for the board of education.

Weatherman Says

Warmer weather for Tuesday, with precipitation in some form, is predicted for Memphis and vicinity by the local office of the weather bureau. The thermometer Monday morning registered 25 degrees, a drop of three degrees under Sunday's reading. Early in the morning were that the cold would continue throughout Monday and Tuesday night, with the promised weather not making itself felt until well into Tuesday.

THIEVES AFTER ALCOHOL ARE FRIGHTENED AWAY

Death in wholesale quantities might have been released in Memphis Sunday following an attempt at robbery Sunday night of the plant of W. N. Wilkerson & Son, wholesale druggists and chemists, 324 South Front street. But the thieves were evidently frightened away without obtaining any loot.

Six alcohol barrels which had been filled with a tree killer the drug company marked alcohol, as it is legally poison, had been rolled to the elevator on the second floor by the thieves. They were abandoned there, and the thieves fled and did not return. The barrels were marked alcohol, as it is legally poison, had been rolled to the elevator on the second floor by the thieves.
